ST VINCENT'S MENTAL HEALTH GRADUATE PROGRAM (RN)

Study Requirements

The MH graduate year is divided into several study blocks, where you will focus on one of the following three modules:

1. Models supporting mental health nursing practice;
2. Psychopathology, assessment and interventions;
3. Communication and counselling.

These modules are specifically designed to prepare you for clinical practice. Successful graduates will participate in 19 scheduled training days and fulfil course requirements including clinical competencies, essays, reflective journals, case presentations, and clinical supervision.

Training is provided by the North East Victorian Innovative Learning, Training and Professional Development Cluster (NEVIL) which provides Victorian mental health clinicians with evidence-based, best-practice knowledge and skills in the diagnosis, assessment, treatment, rehabilitation, and recovery care of people experiencing mental illness.

Clinical Rotations

St Vincent's provides inpatient, community, and specialist mental health services, operating at different sites. To ensure you maximise your learning and consolidate your skills, while also experience a range of services, graduates rotate through two placements, across adult acute, community, and aged mental health. All mental health graduate nurses completing a six-month rotation on one of the wards of the Adult Inpatient Service (AIS) at 46 Nicholson Street, Fitzroy.

On each rotation you will be allocated a preceptor to support and assist you in that particular clinical area. Our Clinical Nurse Educators also provide direct support and clinical supervision. This includes holding weekly group supervision sessions with the mental health graduate nurses.

Credits towards Post-Graduate Qualifications

St Vincent's Mental Health Graduate Nurse Program allows you to gain credits towards postgraduate mental health nursing qualifications.

The following academic institutions recognise St Vincent's Mental Health

Graduate Nurse Program in terms of prior learning:

- RMIT University, Vic
